

Technology

Why Lloyd Morgan?

The Technology team at Lloyd Morgan, which comprises some seventeen seasoned industry professionals, is one of the most experienced teams in the placement of Information Technology professionals in the region.

With experience in supplying candidates to big name vendor clients, well-known multinationals, and the Australian, Hong Kong and Singapore governments, the team has a depth of understanding unrivalled in the market. The Technology team has completed assignments for many senior IT positions including Chief Information Officers and Executive Directors - IT at major commercial and investment banks, and Head of IT for Brokerages, Retailers, Logistics and Transport, and FMCG companies. The team has also undertaken numerous project recruitment exercises where it has supplied multiple teams of IT professionals under both permanent and independent contractor arrangements.

Consultants

The Technology team is strongly relationship driven, and possesses an extensive network of clients and candidates, as well as up-to-date market knowledge. The team, unique to the market, has proven technical expertise in various disciplines.

Candidates

In the current climate, most professional disciplines across industry are at record lows, with shortages hitting businesses hard. Because of this it is even more vital to apply a confidential, collaborative approach in assisting our candidates in furthering their careers. This is when the insight and expertise of our consultants is vital, as they are up to date with latest recruitment trends, salary expectations, inside information and general industry knowledge. Most of our consultants are members of industry associations relevant to their particular disciplines so meet regularly with the people that they recruit for, and receive latest media and industry news first hand.

Clients

Our clients are among the best known and well established, and have relied on our services for a number of years, often following a particular consultant. This relationship driven style has been built around our consultants' reputation and success in the market place, with the trust and confidentiality bestowed upon them paramount to their success. Dialogue is always open and honest, and advice is both received and given in equal measure, more often than not resulting in a timely and successful outcome.

If we can assist you or your business, we look forward to having a confidential discussion to take you to that next level.
